REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art of record does not disclose or suggest a control means for controlling the transfer of the substrate by the controlling apparatus such that a substrate, which is subjected to a next liquid process, stands by before the liquid process unit section at the time of ending the liquid process of the substrate in the liquid process unit in combination with all the other elements recited in each of independent claims 1 and 6.

The prior art of record does not disclose or suggest a control means for controlling the transfer of the substrate by the controlling apparatus such that a substrate, which is subjected to a next light-exposure process, stands by before the liquid process unit section at the time of ending the light-exposure process of the substrate in the light-exposure process unit in combination with all the other elements recited in each of independent claims 9 and 11.

The prior art of record does not disclose or suggest transferring the second substrate by a transferring apparatus such that the second substrate subjected to the cooling process stands by before the liquid process unit section at the time of ending the liquid process of the first substrate, and unloading the first substrate from the liquid process unit section to load the second substrate to the liquid process unit section in combination with all the other steps recited in of independent claims 12.
